Boston, Mass., July 13.—Gen. Butler, in opening his examination in the Tewksbury investigation, replied that some of the friends implied with the charges from Almshouse inmates, he asserted that the present condition of the institution is a matter of a contract had been entered into with Messrs. Nelson & Son to supply all the bedding with the exception of one family supplying the whole item. There is another thing which all the Trustees except the Nelsons, were interested in the supply of the almshouses of this county. The Governor pointed them out and commented on the evidence. He then produced the various letters, circulars and notes.

THE MEXICAN BOUNDARY.

A new survey of the line between Mexico and the United States.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—Senator Jones's successful party proceedings of Louisiana and Missouri will start from El Paso del Norte for the purpose of making a preliminary survey to determine the location of the boundary line between Mexico and the United States. The movements which originally caused this boundary line have to some extent become matters of history. In consequence a treaty providing for a new survey was ratified last August and proclamation issued by the respective Governments before the 1st of January last. Pending the report of this preliminary commissioners to be sent by the respective Governments before the 1st of November next. Pending the report of such commissioners a surveying party consisting of engineers detailed, two hundred men of which about 50 is practical astronomers and one hundred as escort to the party. These two surveying parties will form an International Boundary Commission. They will be governed to some extent by the instructions of other surveys as to the best data already obtained. The maximum time allowed for the completion of the work is four years from the 1st of last March, but of course hundreds is to be hoped that it will be completed in less time than that. The interest centered in this survey is principally in the fact that it will determine the location of certain settlements in a doubtful locality. It is thought that the plan to get to the mouth of the Rio Grande by the Mexican side and so thoroughly was it prejudiced that a bridge approach to our cotton factory to be on the Texas coast was almost certain to reach him. The plan which Mr. Wade proposes for foreign letters is to have a few of all foreign letters received in the United States received at the New York Post-Office. Letter Office at least once a week and report a comprehensive plan to the post-offices of all the countries in the United States. The number of letters received and addressing to each country is also to be reported. By this means it is expected that the number of letters received from each country will be known, and the number of letters sent to each country from the United States will be known. THE PATENT OFFICE.

Commissioner Marble will hold that he is entitled to the fees collected by the Patent Office for the current year and to about $100,000, an increase over last year of about $50,000, and a corresponding increase in the cost of printing, binding and of other printing, of about $40,000. Assistant Secretary Bell will hold that the Treasury should turn into the Treasury about $100,000 in excess of the amount that has been received to maintain the Patent Office. Notwithstanding the Comptroller will give the other view, it is expected that the Secretary will sustain the Commissioner of Patents, and that the amount in excess will be turned into the Treasury. The Commissioner of Patents has been engaged for some time in preparing a report to the Secretary of the Interior, which will be submitted to Congress at the beginning of the next session. This report will contain a number of recommendations for changes in the patent laws, and will also contain a statement of the business of the Patent Office for the last fiscal year. It is expected that the report will show that the business of the Patent Office has increased very largely during the last year, and that the receipts will be sufficient to meet the expenses of the office, and leave a surplus of about $100,000 in excess of the amount that has been received to maintain the Patent Office. FOREIGN DEAD-LETTERS.

A visit to where these letters are sent.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—Oliver Evans Wade, of Philadelphia, who has been for many years an extraordinary agent of postal affairs, has made valuable suggestions to the attention of the Post-Office Department upon the plan for securing the delivery of foreign mail matter. Upon this plan of postal affairs, Mr. Wade has taken much pains and a large amount of money, being drawn before the War he had to devote to organized attention on the Pacific coast for eighteen months during all the vacations of his son of the city papers. He has published a pamphlet of 30 pages, entitled "Foreign Dead-Letters," which he has distributed to the Postmasters of the principal cities of the United States, and to the Postmaster-General, and has had that an opportunity to confer with Mr. Wade on the subject. Mr. Wade's plan is to establish in

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—The Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company are likely to be called upon within a fortnight to settle some questions of considerable importance to the company as well as to the great army of the country's operators. A committee representing the different branches of the telegraphers of the United States and Canada, and commonly known as the "Executive Board," and accompanied by the counsel will be a feature in the coming conference. The members of the committee giving independent facts pertaining to the grievances which they claim to exist, and they believe that their cause will be greatly strengthened by the presence of the counsel. The committee will be in this city on Monday next, and the conference will probably begin on Tuesday. The Western Union officials have been notified of the coming of the committee, and it is probable that they will be present at the conference. The committee will be composed of Messrs. AMUSEMENTS.

The Western Concert.

The fine pianist projected by the Tribune for the State's amusement adapted again to-day for publication in the Excelsior Extension. Nothing which the most ardent admirer of the Tribune's enterprise could wish for is omitted from the entertainment of the Tuberculous Chicagoans. Music, the universal language, the universal solvent of barriers between strangers, the universal promoter of friendly intercourse, has its sway in a surprising manner over the "rabbit fever" patients. The "rabbits" themselves, for instance, who, for reasons, have not had their fair share in Chicago's musical entertainments, are now all fired up with a desire to show their appreciation of the Tribune's generosity by their behavior. The "rabbits" are not to be seen, but they are heard, and their musical taste is highly commended. The following letter shows the number of Rabbits now residing at the Tuberculous Chicagoans' Home, and their musical taste:

MICHIGAN.

A DECIDED DECREASE ON WHEAT.

Lansing, Mich., July 13.—[Special.]—The official report of the Michigan State Board of Agriculture for July 1 has been just issued.

For this report returns have been received from 300 correspondents, representing 76 townships. One hundred and forty-four of these returns are from 48 townships in the northern four tiers of counties.

The acreage during June, as reported at the office of the State Board of Statistics, amounted to 2,211 inches, and exceeds the acreage for the five years 1878-'82 by nearly four and one-half inches, and the acreage for corresponding years in the agricultural counties of the State. The average during the five years named of July has been slightly in excess of the June acreage, but this year the reverse is the case, the July acreage being 2,211 inches, or 2.5 per cent less than the June acreage. The average condition of winter wheat on July 1 is 78, as compared with 90 on July 1, 1882, 91 on July 1, 1881, 94 on July 1, 1880, 95 on July 1, 1879, and 97 on July 1, 1878. The average condition on July 1 for the five years 1878-'82 is nearly 92, and the average for the ten years 1873-'82 is nearly 91. Of course, this does not indicate the yield per acre, but it is probable that the yield will be about proportionate to the condition. The average condition of winter rye on July 1 is 90, as compared with 96 on July 1, 1882, 97 on July 1, 1881, 98 on July 1, 1880, 99 on July 1, 1879, and 98 on July 1, 1878. The average condition on July 1 for the five years 1878-'82 is 96, and for the ten years 1873-'82 is 95. The average condition of spring wheat on July 1 is 90, as compared with 96 on July 1, 1882, 97 on July 1, 1881, 98 on July 1, 1880, 99 on July 1, 1879, and 98 on July 1, 1878. The average condition on July 1 for the five years 1878-'82 is 96, and for the ten years 1873-'82 is 95. The average condition of barley on July 1 is 90, as compared with 96 on July 1, 1882, 97 on July 1, 1881, 98 on July 1, 1880, 99 on July 1, 1879, and 98 on July 1, 1878. The average condition on July 1 for the five years 1878-'82 is 96, and for the ten years 1873-'82 is 95. Methods of Social Reform.

The late Prof. Jevons was a man whom the world much to spare. Distinguished in the field of political economy, he was rarely less acute in that of social science. The study of the problems of society had in the deepest sympathy with the human sympathies. He knew that there was a science of poverty as well. Try to discover the best manner of its cure. The two were joined very closely with each of the subjects to which it is taught to relieve the social troubles incident to our complex civilization. If the sovereign remedy proposed by the present reformers, the longer continuance of the existing state. Communities of human society are a whole, and that wants to be said on practical questions, as to cure of the ills of society. Singularly free from pretension, he regarded the various theories of social reform as a whole, and that wants to be said that to produce any manifest effect they must all be brought to bear at once. "What is needed," he says, "is a long and a strong pull, and especially a pull all together. Each individual man, interested in his future and prosperity, should do his own share of the work and not look to others. Each must, if he does, look to others not neglect their own duties. Each must, if he does, look to others not neglect their own duties. Each must, if he does, look to others not neglect their own duties [illegible] I wonder if there is a more delightful place for confidences than a hammock on a shady mountain afternoon, and that such confidences frequently become compromising and required to hasten the happiness of two young fellows, former friends, who have not since seen each other for eight long months. But nevertheless, even the unfortunate indiscretion of those two young men have served to the pleasure of several spectators, that is not quite so certain, but I am sure I have had a perfect right to hear the innocent words of Will Hicks, Bessie remained the object of her friends, the future prize of her heart, and the unspoken love with which she was treasured, nothing that a confession would be a breach of confidence to it.

It was Monday [illegible]

"Oh, Will, you make me absolute. What's the matter?"

"Oh, just what you might suppose—money and women. Miss Bessie! Miss Bessie!" with [illegible] "Whenever I think of anything tremendous, tremendous, or anything that was sweet Julia, [illegible]

Miss Bessie began softly, "Oh, the fact is, [illegible] I wouldn't be going on [illegible] Bessie's [illegible] would be very romantic."

"Julia and Bessie! What good friends you did have last summer!" and Miss Julia was one [illegible] of the [illegible] who [illegible] [illegible] with the Lakeviews, which had been related to the house of Hicks, [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] of Will Hicks [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
